

What makes us feel we are part of a global village that is becoming smaller and smaller every year?

When do you feel you are a citizen of the World?

World Culture

- I feel I am a citizen of the World when I go to school because I study so many languages and In learn so much about foreign cultures.
- In fact We don't only study the history and culture of our country, but we study all the World.

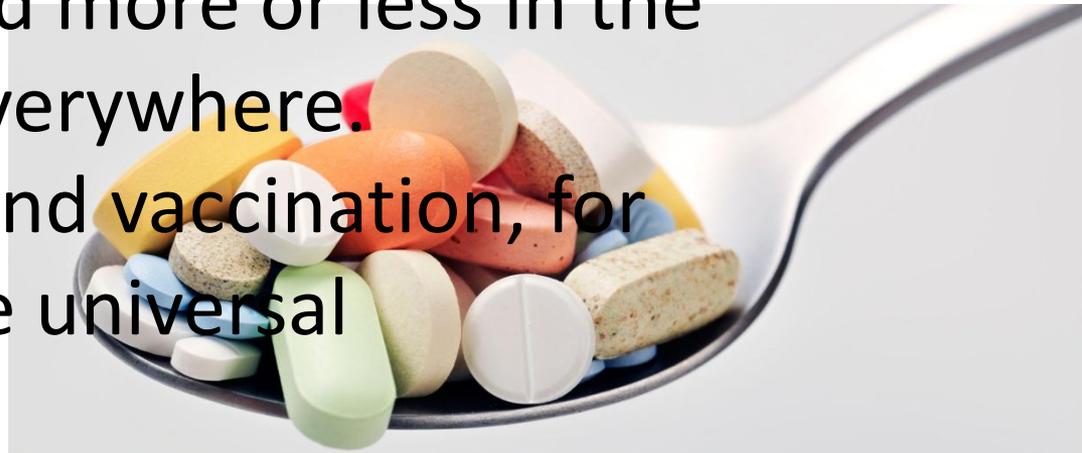

Travelling all over the World

- When I travel I meet different people from different countries and they help me to learn about their cultures and languages.
- Also, I meet so many people that travel abroad because today borders are open and travelling is cheap, easy and fast.

Globalized medicine

- I feel a citizen of the World when I am at the hospital or at the doctor's because all the people there are in the same situation and because the drugs are the same all over the World. WE are cured more or less in the same way everywhere.
- Antibiotics and vaccination, for example, are universal

The world on my phone

- I see I am a citizen of the World when, on my phone, I can see and talk with someone who is in America, Asia or Russia.
- When with my phone I can buy products from all the World in a matter of seconds.
- When I see that on my phone everything is in English because English is the language of the globalized world.

Globalized food

- I feel I am a citizen of the World when I go to the restaurant and I eat the food from other countries, like Japan, China, Middle East and America.
- We have so many fast food restaurants with typical American food, we have lots of Chinese restaurants and lots of people eat at Kebab shops.

The World of Work

- Because a lot of Italians travel all over the World for work and settle abroad for years or for life.
- Lots of Italian businesses send workers abroad for short and for long periods
- There is also a lot of foreigners that work and live in Italy
